

Careers in the Law (Kogan Page careers)

Revised and updated to include recent changes in training, working practice and structural reorganization, this book guides the reader around the multitude of opportunities in the law. Part 1 examines the personal qualities, training and skills required for the roles of barrister, solicitor, legal executive, legal secretary, outdoor clerk, court administrator and those who provide back-up services to the legal profession, such as court reporters and law costs draftsmen. Advice is given on how to find a job, with details of salaries and prospects. Part 2 examines the courses and qualifications available, and lists useful publications, addresses and legal terms.
